

Assmann Holding Top-Management: Phil Penninger

Phil Penninger has been Managing Director of the Operations division of Assmann Holding, based in Lüdenscheid, since 2021. In the same position, he has also been responsible for the German subsidiary Assmann Electronic GmbH since 2018. During his many years with the company, he has consistently driven forward the optimization of supply chain management as well as the organization's warehouse and logistics processes. Penninger is also responsible for other back-office areas such as IT and quality management, as well as overseeing product management for the entire group of companies.

The career path of the Chief Operations Officer (COO) is a very special one, as Penninger can look back on a long and successful career with the company, which began in the mid-1990s as a vacation jobber at Assmann and from 1998 as a working student during his business studies and parallel training as an industrial clerk. Fittingly, Penninger is now also responsible for the training and trainee program at Assmann Electronic GmbH.

Penninger received his diploma in 2002 and subsequently worked as assistant to the management at Assmann from 2003 to 2006. This was followed by various senior management positions in process and project management (2006-2013) and in the logistics and SCM sector of the company (2013-2018), before he was appointed General Manager Operations at Assmann Electronic GmbH in 2018 and in the same position at Assmann Holding GmbH in 2021. In addition, Penninger has already proven himself on the international stage, in particular through a six-month stay at the Asian Assmann subsidiaries in Taiwan, Hong Kong and China.

Phil Penninger is married, has three children and enjoys mountain biking in his spare time. He is also the proud owner of one of the largest console collections in the world with his "Consollection". Penninger currently has 338 video game consoles from five decades in his collection.
